Perfectly Imperfect . . . Understanding the Misunderstood By Anne Schober

A group of students who are perfectly imperfect and who took the time to write their life stories in order to teach others to take the time to get to know the person standing in front of them, to delve into their inner soul and discover the whole person. Each person has a story to tell. . . each person has a voice. They also hope to enlighten teachers to get to know their students because a teacher may never know whose life they may save. . .
