Trade War (Necrospace Book 3) By Sean-Michael Argo

It is the Age of The Corporation.

The common man toils under the watchful eye of the elite and their enforcers. The rules of law have long been replaced by the politics of profit. The dark ages of feudalism have returned with capitalistic ferocity. There is no peace among the stars of mapped space and business is booming.

Economic competition between the Grotto and Helion corporations, brought on by the discovery of new star systems once ruled by an ancient machine race, has escalated into a full scale galactic conflict. The Reapers of Tango Platoon are mere pawns amongst the vast armies of conscripts, convicts, and contractors fighting their way across hostile alien worlds and through the cold void of space at the will of their corporate masters. As the veteran marines are continuously hurled into vicious battles by their superiors with callous disregard for fair compensation or their very lives, a radical labor union movement grows within the ranks. Samuel Hyst is surviving the war one day at a time, his only goal being to make it home alive, though while he is away at war his family must contend with new enemies and dangers of their own.
