Editorial Review

Review

In Mind On Fire, Blaise Pascal (a remarkable seventeenth century mathematician, physicist, and religious thinker) rigorously refutes the belief that to become a Christian you must first commit intellectual suicide. His burning conviction regarding the truth of the Christian faith produced writings that are still persuasive to the skeptical, the indifferent, and the hostile today. Drawn from his meditations, Mind On Fire contains Pascal's uncompromising defense of Christian belief, ably arranged by James Houston. Mind On Fire is a masterpiece of engaging theological scholarship. -- Midwest Book Review
